FINDING DIGITAL IMAGES
As a patron of the CIA Library, you have access to several web-based, subscription image databases. These should be your first stop as they contain high quality images. Some require you to access them from on campus, others can be accessed off campus once you set up an account or have the login information. If you know what museum owns a specific work of art, it might be best to locate that museum’s web site and then search for the art object.

- ARTstor – contains over 1.6 million images
- AskART
- Oxford Art Online
- OhioLINK Digital Resources Commons
- Google Images

FINDING REPRODUCTIONS IN PERIODICALS
Look up the artist’s last name in these indexes:

- Art Source
- daai (design and applied art index)

FINDING REPRODUCTIONS IN BOOKS AND EXHIBITION CATALOGS
Look up the artist’s or designer’s last name as a SUBJECT in the LIBRARY CATALOG.

INDEXES TO REPRODUCTIONS IN BOOKS
The library’s reference collection contains many specialized indexes and guides to reproductions of artworks. Please check the catalog or ask a librarian for help in locating these items.

FINDING REPRODUCTIONS IN THE IMAGE COLLECTION
The images in our local CIA Image Collection will be retrieved when you search ARTstor. You must be logged in to access the images off campus. The local image collection’s results are noted with a gray S under the thumbnail. If you have any questions, please contact the Image Librarian.

REMEMBER: Most art reproductions are copyrighted!

CAN’T FIND ANYTHING? Ask the library staff for help.