Creativity matters

“I was unsure about going to art school in the future, but after the Pre-College program I really want to pursue a career in art.”

—Mae

Learn something new, or focus on something you love.

At the Cleveland Institute of Art, we teach art and design students in an environment built exclusively for creative thinkers. Taught by experts in the field, our courses are designed for students with talent, but not necessarily experience in each discipline, so feel free to explore something new.

Many students take our classes to work on their portfolio for applying to college. Other students want to explore a medium or process they’ve not tried before.

Can’t decide on one class? Stay for both sessions and take two!

It's not too early to start preparing for your future as an artist and designer. You'll complete the program with finished work for your portfolio. While you're here, you can meet with one of our admissions counselors for a portfolio review and speak to our Career Services staff. Pre-College students are also eligible to earn designated scholarships toward CIA's BFA program.

Your home in Cleveland

Experience life as a college student.

“You meet some amazing people, also you get to be close to a lot of restaurants and cool places to visit.”

—Zakhar

Whether you come from California or Cleveland, you’ll have the opportunity to experience Uptown and the amazing cultural hub of University Circle. Residential students will stay in CIA’s Uptown Residence Hall, just steps from the studio spaces where you’ll spend your day.

Meals are included for all students, offering a variety of options and accommodations for all dietary needs. The Uptown neighborhood has shopping and dining options, too, when you’re ready to take a break or get a snack.

If you live in Ohio’s Cuyahoga County, commuting is also an option. We have many full-time commuter students at CIA. Take advantage of gaining the same academic experience as residential Pre-College students, while returning home each evening.

“As close to actually attending college as a high school student can get.”

—Olivia

State-of-the-art facilities in the heart of a cultural hub.

Learn in a studio or classroom, not a lecture hall.

From our fabrication studios and digital output center to our computerized kilns, you'll find the tools you'll need to ideate, build, and create.

University Circle—Cleveland's cultural resource.

CIA's campus is in the heart of University Circle, where you'll benefit from a wealth of art and culture that includes Case Western Reserve University and six museums—including the world-renowned Cleveland Museum of Art. University Circle features more than 20 cultural, healthcare, and educational institutions—all on less than two square miles. The Museum of Contemporary Art is literally across the street from our residence hall!

"I was able to learn so much in an environment where art is not only the main focus, but valued and encouraged."
